Operation RANDOLPH GLEN began. FSB Rifle (YD862988) served as the base of the operations for the “STRIKE Force Battalion” (2-502 IN) with the maneuver companies located in the canopy to the north and south of the firebase. Joint US/ARVN operations were to play a significant role throughout the following New Year.

07 December 1970

Operation JEFFERSON GLEN/MONSOON PLAN 70: Alpha Company, 1st Battalion, 502nd Infantry 3rd Platoon, 2nd Squad found five fighting positions two to three months old at Grid YD842048. They formed a V and could possibly have been used for an ambush; there was no recent activity in the area.

07 December 2007

OPN Dolphins II – B/2-502 IN pairs with 2/2/8 IA and conducts OPN Dolphins II, an air assault to isolate and cordon the Jama al-Din mosque, a well-known AQI mosque, in order to seize al-Qaeda leaders. The initial chalk, led by 1LT Jeremy Arias, 3/B/2-502 IN takes effective fire from a nearby house upon infill. Once 3/B establishes the cordon, the IA push through and secure the individuals inside the mosque. 1/B, in coordination with the IA, detains a total of 58 individuals for extremist activity. It takes two lifts of 5 x UH60's to exfil back to FOB Kalsu with the detainees. Approximately 15 are taken into CF custody while another 35 are kept by the IA. The operation is a great success, capturing several AQI leaders and disrupting AQI coordination and efforts in the area for months to come.

07 December 2010 –
28 February 2011

CTF STRIKE conducted Operation Dragon Wrath (Amaliat Ajdaha Khashamgine) in order to deny insurgents access to historical engagement areas south of Highway 1 and to the majority of the population. The operation was conducted in three phases: building engagement areas to disrupt insurgents along south to north running axes of advance from the Horn of Panjwa'i to Zharay; killing or capturing insurgents who are returning to historical locations in Zharay in order to prevent effects on Highway 1 and the populace; and preparation and transition of offensive operations to 3/10 Mountain in order to set the conditions for Afghan National Security Forces (ANSF) to take the lead and for CTF SPARTAN to maintain the initiative.

Within this operation were several key tasks. All subordinate Task Forces had to complete engagement area development prior to the foliage returning in "the gardens". A critical component of this was the completion of the Security Road which ran all the way from COP Kolk in the east, through Strongpoint Diwar, Sangisar, Lakokhel, and Ghundy Ghar all the way out to COP Azim Jan Kariz in the west. This security road provided critical shaping operations to not only force the insurgents to travel through manned checkpoints but also provided the residents of Zharay with a known, secured route that provided them with increased freedom of movement and ability to transit the district. To reinforce the effects of this road, Task Forces needed to interdict insurgents attempting to bypass the engagement areas, destroy insurgents along with their essential supplies and facilities, and conduct time sensitive intelligence-driven raids. Concomitant with this were continuing efforts to influence the people to secure themselves.

At the end state of this operation, insurgents would be unable to regain their influence over the local population and would be denied the use of key terrain. CTF STRIKE was postured to transition authority allowing CTF SPARTAN to maintain the initiative once the foliage returned. Afghan citizens had freedom of movement along Highway 1 and increased confidence in the capacity of ANSF to provide security, enhanced economic growth, and increased connections to district and local government with the ability to secure themselves against insurgent threats.

The Secretary of Defense awarded medals to Soldiers from the 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault), during a visit to Forward Operating Base Howz-e-Madad, Kandahar Province, Afghanistan, Dec. 8.

The Honorable Dr. Robert Gates, the Secretary of Defense, pinned eight Purple Hearts, 11 Army Commendation Medals with Valor and two Bronze Star Medals with Valor on Combined Action Strike Force Soldiers for exceptional meritorious and valorous actions while operating in southern Afghanistan. The Soldiers who received the awards from the Secretary of Defense were honored by the ceremony.

"It was an honor to meet the Secretary of Defense today," said SPC Adam J. Lipski, a native of Savannah, Georgia and a combat medic with Company A, 2nd Battalion, 502nd Infantry Regiment, 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) who was awarded the Bronze Star with Valor for his efforts to save another Soldier in the face of enemy fire, Sept. 16. "You don't get to meet a man in that high of a position everyday and it was definitely intense." Gates spoke to the STRIKE Soldiers about their missions and operations while in Afghanistan.

"You guys here are at the tip of the spear of the campaign of the last seven months of which you have taken new territory, cleared it, secured and held it," said Gates. "Your time together in the battle spaces in southeastern and southwestern Afghanistan is a critical part of our strategy and the current campaign."

The day's events included the awards ceremony, a showcase of some of today's weapons used by the STRIKE Brigade in the Afghan theater and a lunch and photo shoot for the Soldiers with Gates, where he shared his gratitude for the deployed men and woman.

"I just want to express my appreciation for what you are doing," said Gates. "I want to thank you for signing up and serving with the military in a time you knew you would be at war."

Gates also spoke to the Soldiers about being away from loved ones during the holiday season and to pass a message from him to the families back home.

"At this holiday time it's tough to be away from your families," said Gates. "The next time when you're in touch with your families I hope you let them know whether it's email or a phone call, just pass along to them my personal thanks to them for their support to you and their patience with all of us. What they do makes your service possible and we recognize that."

The following Soldiers: SPC Erick Rodriguez-Zigala was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor and Purple Heart; CPL Justin Wishenhunt, PFC Randall McMinn, and PFC Brandon Taylor (2-502 IN) earned the Purple Heart for military merit and for wounds received, during and operation when an M113 track vehicle traveling as part of a convoy with 3/B/2-502 IN strikes a pressure-button IED consisting of approximately 100 lbs. of HME. Four soldiers – PFC Randall McMinn, CPL Justin Wishenhunt, PFC Brandon Taylor, and SPC Erick Rodriguez-Zigala are wounded in the blast as the M113 catches fire and ammunition inside the vehicle begins cooking off. SPC Rodriguez-Zigala, the PLT medic, begins pulling the other three Soldiers to safety and administering aid to them, despite being wounded himself. All four men are MEDEVACed, but Rodriguez-Zigala refuses to get on the UH-60 aircraft and only relents after a direct order from his platoon leader. His bravery, dedication under dire circumstances, and quick action earned him a Bronze Star with Valor, the only Bronze Star with Valor to be awarded in 2-502 for the entire rotation.

SSG Jorge B. Otero (E/1-502 IN) was awarded the Army Commendation Medal with Valor (2-OLC) for heroism in the Republic of Vietnam on 8 December 1968. Platoon Sergeant Otero distinguished himself while serving as the Reconnaissance Platoon Sergeant of Company E, 1st Battalion, 502nd Infantry, in Quang Dien District, Republic of Vietnam. While on a night operation, an ambush was sprung by the First Squad approximately two hundred meters from the platoon command position. While the Command Group was controlling the action and directing artillery support, it received heavy enemy sniper fire. With complete disregard for his own safety, Platoon Sergeant Otero moved through the enemy fire, a distance of approximately one hundred and fifty meters, in a successful attempt to flank the enemy. From this position, Platoon Sergeant Otero routed the enemy by placing a heavy, accurate volume of fire on the enemy position. Through his courage, he contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission, which resulted in two enemy killed and no friendly losses. Platoon Sergeant Otero's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 08 December 1968

1LT John F. Hay (E/1-502 IN) was awarded the Army Commendation Medal with Valor for heroism in the Republic of Vietnam on 8 December 1968. First Lieutenant Hay distinguished himself while serving as the Reconnaissance Platoon leader of Company E, 1st Battalion, 502nd Infantry, in Quang Dien District, Republic of Vietnam. While on a night operation, the first squad of the reconnaissance platoon initiated an ambush approximately two hundred meters from the Command position. Lieutenant Hay immediately began directing illumination and tried to establish radio contact with the first squad leader in order to take command of the situation. Finding that his radio was not operating, Lieutenant Hay moved into the open and began shouting orders and directing the action. The brightness of the illumination and his shouting orders clearly marked his position and snipers fire was directed toward him. With complete disregard for his own safety, Lieutenant Hay remained in this position for five minutes, directing his platoon until the action was completed. Through his courage, he contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission, which resulted in two enemy killed and no friendly losses. Lieutenant Hay's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

SGT Gene Hawthorne (A/2-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal while distinguishing himself from 9 December 1965 to 10 December 1965 while serving as patrol leader of a squad size element during a reconnaissance mission in "War Zone D", Republic of Vietnam. After successfully infiltrating into Viet Cong territory, Sergeant Hawthorne's patrol was to remain in place until they were covered by the forward movement of friendly troops. Despite the skill and experience of the patrol, they were discovered after several hours and engaged by a Viet Cong platoon. Sergeant Hawthorne and his patrol immediately switched their M-16 rifles to automatic and repelled the attack. After two more encounters with the insurgent troops, Sergeant Hawthorne was seriously wounded in both arms by fragments from a booby trap that killed one of his men. After unsuccessfully persuading his men to leave him behind, he directed his assistant in the formation of a defensive perimeter. Sergeant Hawthorne continued to direct his assistant through two more vicious attempts to destroy the patrol. Realizing that his patrol had been out down to three effective fighting men, Sergeant Hawthorne demanded that he be placed in a firing position. Although he was only semi-conscious and could only see a few meters ahead, Sergeant Hawthorne, with complete disregard for his personal safety, held his positions throughout the last assault and delivered deadly fire into the attacking Viet Cong. Summoning the last of his strength, he pinpointed the patrol's position for an artillery battery and helped his assistant adjust the incoming rounds by the sounds of the bursts. Through his courage and outstanding leadership, the insurgents were forced to withdraw, and a Viet Cong regimental base camp was discovered and subsequently destroyed. Sergeant Hawthorne's extraordinary heroism in close combat against a numerically superior hostile force was in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

SGT Robert E. Drake (A/2-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal while distinguishing himself from 9 December 1965 to 10 December 1965 while serving as assistant patrol leader of a squad size element during a reconnaissance mission in "War Zone D", Republic of Vietnam. After successfully infiltrating into Viet Cong territory, Sergeant Drake's patrol was to remain in place until they were covered by the forward movement of friendly troops. Despite the skill and experience of the patrol, they were discovered after several hours and engaged by a Viet Cong Platoon. While moving to a more tenable position, the patrol leader was wounded and became too weak to effectively direct the patrol. Sergeant Drake immediately assumed command and formed a defensive perimeter. On the following morning, as he was preparing to extricate his patrol with two wounded and two dead, the Viet Cong launched another assault. Sergeant Drake immediately set up another defensive perimeter and personally prevented a breakthrough on the left flank. When the forward observer was killed, Sergeant Drake, with complete disregard for his personal safety, crawled 30 meters to the radio and called for suppressive artillery fire. At least six times during the course of action, Sergeant Drake exposed himself to direct fire as he maneuvered around the perimeter to distribute ammunition and treat casualties. Through his courage, determination, and outstanding leadership, the insurgents were forced to withdraw, and a Viet Cong regimental base camp was discovered and subsequently destroyed. Sergeant Drake's extraordinary heroism against a numerically superior hostile force was in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

12 December 1965

SSG Pete A. Valasquez (B/2-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (Posthumously) while distinguishing himself on 12 December 1965 while serving as a squad leader in an airborne infantry battalion on a search and destroy operation in Ben Cat, Republic of Vietnam. Sergeant Valasquez was assigned to the lead platoon of the battalion. At approximately 0915 hours while advancing through dense jungle terrain, one squad in the platoon came under fire from an estimated Viet Cong squad. Hearing the initial burst of fire, Sergeant Valasquez quickly moved his squad to the front to assist the squad under fire. Upon reaching the area, the insurgent squad had slipped back into the jungle leaving several trails of blood. Without hesitation, Sergeant Valasquez led four of his men along the trail of blood in relentless pursuit of the insurgents. As they stopped off the small trail, six Viet Cong opened fire from concealed positions with automatic weapons and hand grenades. Sergeant Valasquez was wounded four times, but he quickly turned to his men and directed their fire on the insurgents. As the fire fight progressed, a grenade wounded him for the fifth time and he fell to the ground unconscious and shortly afterwards died from his wounds. Throughout the brief but ferocious battle, Sergeant Valasquez placed the welfare of his men and the accomplishment of the mission above his personal safety. His leadership, devotion to duty, and gallantry were an inspiration to his men. Sergeant Valasquez's gallant actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

The following Soldiers: 1LT Cory Kastl and SFC Stanford Pottruff (B/2-502 IN) earned the Army Commendation Medal with Valor and Purple Heart while they distinguished themselves by exceptionally meritorious service with 2nd platoon, Company B, 2nd Battalion, 502nd Infantry Regiment, 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault).

In the weeks leading up to the attack, insurgent forces had staged multiple attacks directed at Strong Point Diwar. They possessed freedom of maneuver due to the cover and concealment gained through multiple ditch lines. The majority of the attacks were aimed at CF/ANA in an attempt to disrupt friendly activity. At approximately 0850, insurgents attacked SP Diwar with a VBIED.

SFC Pottruff was in the northeastern room planning the upcoming mission with our ANA brothers when the VBIED detonated and the rubble began falling from the roof. Despite being buried from the blast, which caused injuries and suffering from disorientation, SFC Pottruff quickly pulled himself from the rubble, regained his composure and gained control of the chaos. The blast and concussion from the VBIED caved in the northeastern roof and the northern wall. Underneath the rubble, there were multiple people trapped. 1LT Kastl, who was in the southeastern room, was woken up by the VBIED and the rubble falling from the roof. He was buried under a caved in roof, but was quickly pulled from the rubble.

SFC Pottruff reestablished security in order to mitigate the effectiveness of a possible complex attack while 1LT Kastl immediately attempted to regain communication with company headquarters. The Company Command Post was located at COP Sangsar 900 meters east of SP Diwar. SFC Pottruff called for a quick reaction force, and even though 1LT Kastl was injured, he continued to maintain communication with the Company Command Post, checked security in order to protect the remaining members in his platoon, and SFC Pottruff and 1LT Kastl aided in the recovery of the fallen.

SFC Pottruff resuscitated CPL Wright after he was uncovered and was present as each Soldier was recovered from the ruins. Despite his injuries, and recognizing his Soldiers' need for a ground commander, 1LT Kastl and SFC Pottruff refused to board the MEDEVAC. For over an hour, 1LT Kastl demonstrated steadfast composure and established command and control on the chaotic battlefield. SFC Pottruff continued to check on security, manage the recovery efforts and send accurate reports to both his platoon leader and 1SG.

During this time, 1LT Kastl coordinated and directed rotary wing over watch assets, a Battalion QRF, and multiple MEDEVAC helicopters.

1LT Kastl and SFC Pottruff's valorous actions after a catastrophic event resulted in the successful defense of SP Diwar and saved the lives of their Soldiers.

SGT Ronald J. Ymbras (1/502nd IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in connection with ground operations against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam. Through his untiring efforts and professional ability he consistently obtained outstanding results. He was quick to grasp the implications of new problems with which he was faced as a result of the ever changing situations inherent in a counterinsurgency operation and to find ways and means to solve those problems.

The energetic application of this extensive knowledge has materially contributed to the efforts of the United State Mission to the Republic of Vietnam to assist that country in ridding itself of the communist threat to its freedom. His initiative, zeal, sound judgment and devotion to duty have been in the highest tradition of the United States Army and reflect great credit on him and on the military service. (HQ; 101st ABN DIV; General Order No: 9860; 26 November 1968)

STRIKE HISTORY NOTE:

A major reorganization took place on 3 February 1964, when the 2nd Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division was activated at Fort Campbell, replacing the 1st Airborne Battle Group, 501st Infantry Regiment. The reorganization from the battle groups to brigades and battalions placed two battalions of the 502nd in different brigades of the 101st. The 2nd Battalion was in the 1st Brigade with 1-327th and 2-327th Infantry. Which deployed to Vietnam 1965, in was most notable commanded by LTC Hank "The Gunfighter" Emerson. The new 2nd Brigade's original organic battalions were the 1st and 2nd Battalions, 501st Infantry, and the 1st Battalion, 502nd Infantry.

December 1967, 2nd Brigade deployed by C-141 aircraft to the Republic of Vietnam. Over the next five years, Soldiers of the "Ready to Go" Brigade participated in twelve campaigns, compiling a distinguished combat record as well as an enviable reputation for success in the rehabilitation of a war-torn nation. The President of Vietnam personally decorated the colors of the Brigade three times, twice with the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry, and once with the RVN Civic Action Honor Medal. The Brigade redeployed to Fort Campbell in April, 1972.

In 1984, with the reorganization of the Combat Arms Regimental System, the 2nd Brigade became the parent headquarters for the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Battalions of the 502nd Infantry Regiment. With this reorganization, the Brigade adopted the regimental motto, "Strike."
